

Running for cover ...

Greene County School District administrators and GCHS school staffer (along with Herald reporter / photographer Brad Crowe) were glad to have a popup tent to find shelter under when a pop-up thunderstorm paused Commencement for a few minutes last Friday. The group is shown taking a 'selfie' beneath the tent, which was in place to protect the sound equipment used for the event. Everyone in attendance seemed to take the rain shower in stride and didn't let it dampen the mood.

— From Staff Reports —

The scholarship program, funded by MCEF and the Mississippi State Board of Contractors, rewards top-performing students in career and technical education programs who are on track to enroll and be accepted in construction- or manufacturing-related degree programs after graduating from high school.

Jordan, who was a celebrated welding student at the Greene County Vocational Technical Center, will continue her education in welding at Jones College.

MCEF is a non-profit educational foundation that provides NCCER craft training and credentialing in more than 100 career and technical programs across the state. MCEF also offers workforce training and credentialing in construction, industrial maintenance and manufacturing trades. Learn more about MCEF at <http://mcef.net>.

"Lyla is a very smart girl. Great work ethic great attitude," welding instructor Dale Bos said. "Great qualities in a student."

"She has great leadership skills. Before Covid national champion open and closing ceremonies. I enjoyed having her in my class."
