FEATURES FROM THE BIBLE
TRUTH IN SCRIPTURE
Job
Book of Job

Job lived in the land of Uz which was probably in northeast Palestine between Damascus and the Eupharates River. Job was a wealthy and upright man. He owned much land and livestock but lost all his possessions, his children and his health. Job's wife urged him to curse God and die. Job refused.

Job's three friends wrongly assumed that suffering was always the result of sin and therefore called on Job to repent. Job's suffering was not the result of his sin. He proclaimed his innocence and God rebuked the friends.

A fourth friend said that God was using the suffering to mold and train Job. God finally reminded Job that He should be content without knowing why he was suffering and that He was still in charge. Job affirmed his trust in God and God restored his material possessions and his family.
