

Kight Home Center was totally updated in October of 2018. When you walk into the store you now are walking into the design center. A lot of the new locations for Kight Home Center are strictly design centers, which provide a great selection of windows, doors, fireplaces, countertops and flooring. It's a beautiful showroom with a lot of ideas for people to see.

"Our walk-in traffic for the last couple years has increased as we're getting that walk-in residential traffic from people who want to build a deck or build an addition to a house," said Steve Stinson, manager of Kight Home Center. The upgrade has not only been a bonus for Kight, but also for our contractors. Contractors have a place where they feel comfortable sending their customer. They can come in and see it, touch it, feel it and get ideas. It's a beautiful showroom.

Kight Home Center has lumberyards in Evansville, Owensboro, Bowling Green, Hopkinsville and Nashville. Their kitchen interiors are in Evansville, Indiana, Clarksville Tennessee, Bowling Green, Owensboro, and Hopkinsville, Kentucky. They also have a 34-acre door shop and trust manufacturing plant in Bowling Green and several design centers; one in Clarksville, Bowling Green and Nashville. Kight is a subsidiary of Carter Lumber, but continue to grow as Kight Home Center. Carter Lumber is the 2nd largest family owned lumberyard in the United States. The company is family owned, not publically traded, so you get that small town family atmosphere in a bigger store.

Most people that come in already have a contractor, so they're coming in to pick out materials or products to make selections. If you don't have a builder you can always come in to get items or help with your plans. Kight also provides in-house drafting and blueprint drawings. They will come to your home and look at your kitchen and make a blueprint of the house to help you redesign it. They also have cabinet designers go to your a job, measure it, come back and draw out the drawings and layouts. They talk to their customers to
