

Open House and Ribbon Cutting

Jack Gupton and Bill Landrum cut the ribbon Wednesday, May 5 during the Open House at the Gupton-Landrum Funeral Home, 307 East Columbia Ave. Greensburg. Those attending enjoyed refreshments and tours of the historic Creel House, which was completed in 1820. The addition to the rear of the house, which contains a foyer and a chapel, was completed in 2020. The chapel can comfortably accommodate 190 guests and over 250 with the use of an additional room. The funeral home is veteran owned and operated by Jack Gupton, COL (Ret.) William "Bill" and Justine Landrum and Jamie Cole. The Creel House is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

City Council: special called

The Greensburg City Council met in a special called meeting Monday night. They approved the minutes from the April 12 meeting and also approved financial statements presented by Nancy Stearman. The council went into executive session to discuss litigation that is pending. More information from the meeting will be available in next week's paper.

Progress continues at Country Club

The Green County Country Club's building project continues to take shape. "Everything has been moving according to schedule," said Blake Robertson, president of the Country Club. "We're still expecting a Fall completion." Robertson pointed out that so far, golf had not been negatively affected by the construction of the clubhouse. "We would like to thank our members, and guests for the continued support and understanding," Robertson added. Robertson is not the only one excited about the progress. "With the completion of our temporary clubhouse/Back Porch Lite, the bar is open Tuesday through Saturday, and the hours vary," said Hayes Moore, who is vice president. Moore went on to say that they have been fully operational for a few weeks now. "With warm weather in the near future, it's a great time to come check us out, he said." Plans are also underway for tournaments at the golf course. Brennen Milby serves as tournament director. "We have already had two tournaments at GCCC, with both at full capacity," Milby said. Milby encourages players who want to compete to sign up early for the tournaments. "Our biggest tournament of the year, the GCCC Invitational Tournament, is set for June 26-27," Milby said. "We are expecting a great turnout as usual. With a limited number of available tee times, it would be a good idea to sign up as early as possible."

Significant progress is being made on the clubhouse building at the Green County Country Club. The golf course is open during the rebuilding of the clubhouse which was destroyed by fire.
