Nancy Stearman was recognized for creating one of the most inspiring polio eradication projects in the nation. Rotarians across the US were motivated to solicit donations for the small bears which were then given to police to be used to calm children when officers responded to emergencies. Stearman received the Regional Service Award for a polio-free world. The award is one of only ten presented nationwide by the trustees of the Rotary Foundation for efforts in promoting polio eradication. Fellow Rotarians, both near and far away, have begun referring to her as “The Polio Queen.” Stearman, who is District Governor Elect, is one of thousands of Rotarians worldwide who have led the successful charge to eradicate polio

Rotary President Jay Shofner presents Story with a banner which is occasionally given to distinguished guests. The banner features sketches of the oldest courthouse west of the Alleghenies (1804) the home of Jane Todd Crawford (1807) the Long Hunters Camp (1769) the tobacco market (1811) and the Kentucky Long Rifle (1850)

The Greensburg Rotary Club was recognized November 16 for outstanding achievements the past year. Gail Story, who is District Governor for the clubs in District 6710, presents past president Steve Curry the Rotary Citation for 2020-2021. Only four of the 55 clubs in the district received this award. Lower photo. Story presents the award for the best new community service project in the district for collecting food and personal items for the food pantry.
