- 30) Cayenne pepper can help stop bleeding. The cayenne can either be sprinkled on the injury directly or diluted in water and soaked into a bandage. Anecdotal evidence suggests that the nowder helps equalize blood pressure, meaning less blood will pump out of the wound and it will clot faster. Some even believe that the pepper will help alleviate pain something normal bandages can't do.
- 31) So to make it stretch, they had to mix other things with the little meat they had. Things that were available growing in the wild, such as chili peppers and onions. The concoction consisted of more chili peppers than anything. Hence the name of the dish.
