Hollinghead

Once the students were done with breakfast and having a little fun in the cafeteria, it was time for them to get down to business and make sure they knew what they were supposed to do for their class night and graduation ceremonies.

Each student grabbed a chair and made their way to the gym to put them in rows before making their way to the porch to make sure they lined up correctly. They ran through the program a few times before taking their chairs and making their way to the football field where they made their way through the events of the evening, such as speeches and the way diplomas would be handed out.

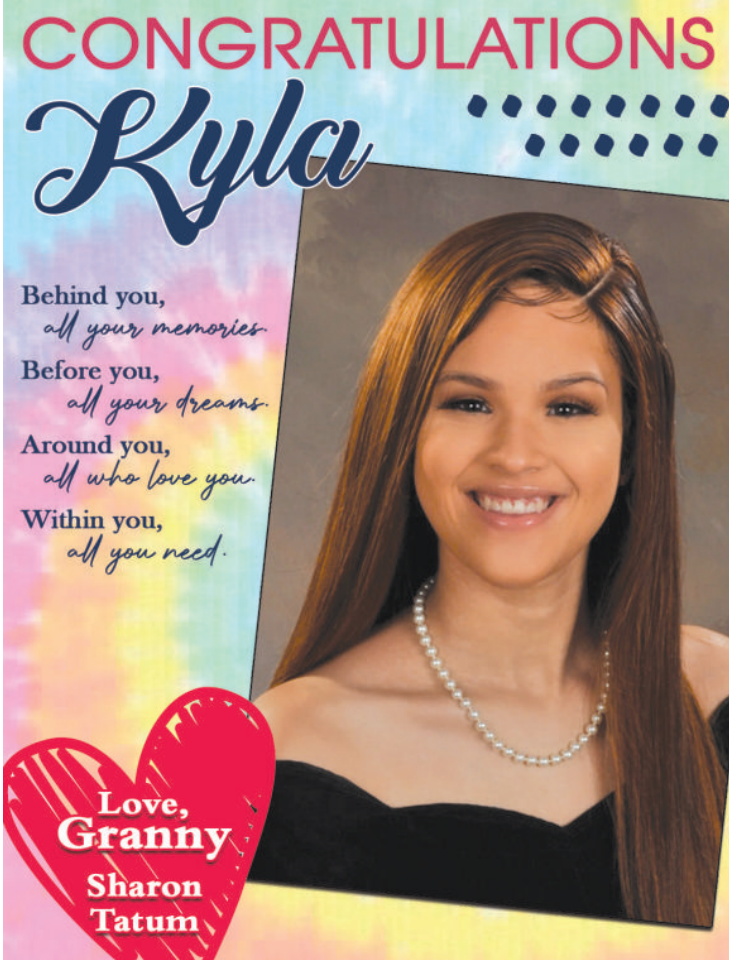

While they each knew they were spending some of their final moments together before they would each make their own way in this big world, there were lots of smiles to go around-and many memories made.
