

Ray Coughran

Ray Coughran served from 1961 to 1966 as a Marine during the beginning of the Vietnam War. He was born on Christmas Day, 1943. Coughran was a new adult, as so many are, when he enlisted into the Marine Core at just 18 years old. He was a mechanic, working on the water trucks and other vehicles while stationed in Da Nang, Vietnam. Coughran’s time of service was extended by six months, and was stationed in California.

He is a member of the Veterans Administration and the Elk Lodge. His grandson, Justin Coughran, followed in his footsteps and joined the navy right after graduating Highschool. He was born in 1990 and joined right after his 18 birthday and served until he was 21. Justin was assigned clean-up after the Fukushima nuclear disaster of March 2011. Justin attends meetings at the Veterans Administration. Ray Coughran, grandfather of Justin, is listed in the Choctaw Veterans Memorial in town.
