

What's trending? Barkitecture

By Jennifer Moonsong

The old adage, "he's in the doghouse" won't hold water in 2022, since the dog house might as well be the penthouse.

Across America and Europe, the love of our furry friends has never been greater, and there has never been more available to pamper your pet. But it goes beyond cushy pillows, expensive toys, and organic treats. These days, people are designing their homes to suit their four-legged friends.

Dog-friendly furniture is the biggest trend on pet first design. According to Pinterest data more people than ever are searching "luxury dog rooms". The trend is so prevalent it is risen by 115%. And it's not just for dogs, more and more people are researching luxuries for their feline friends as well. This type of architecture/design
