

Diamond Caverns continued from page 7

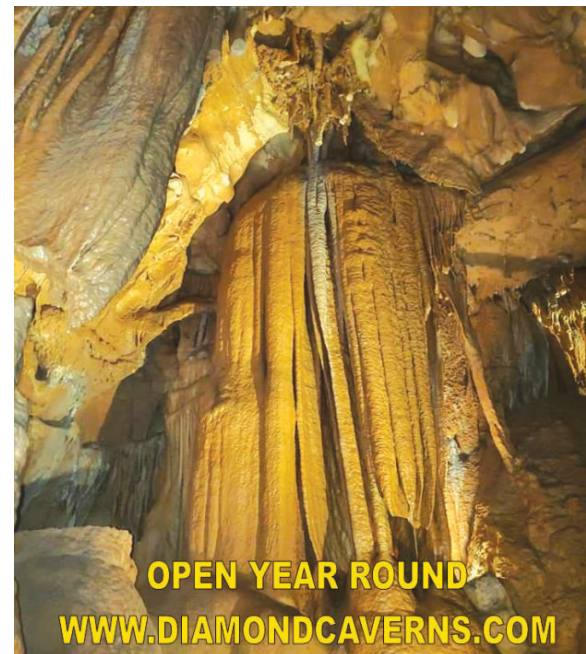

Diamond Caverns was closed for 82 days last year due to the pandemic, only the second year in our history that has happened, with the last time being during the Civil War. We are happy to report that we have bounced back and are excited to welcome visitors to the Central Kentucky Cave Region.

Whether from around the corner, across the Commonwealth, or across the country, we welcome all our visitors to take part in our tour and see what makes Diamond Caverns special.

In 2021, we turn 162 years old. That means we've been around since the American flag had only 33 stars on it. We predate the Pony Express, Mark Twain's writing career, the transcontinental railroad, and the Kentucky Derby – just to name a few! So stop in and take a tour, shop in our rock and gift shop, pan for gemstones and fossils, and see what sets us apart from the rest.

Open year-round, Diamond Caverns is a little bit history, a little bit geology, and a whole lot of fun!
