WILSON,

Wilson said the tourism commission will be “continuing on as we always have - promoting Lake Cumberland and Russell County and showing tourists that we can offer all of the amenities that other destinations can and more.”

Wilson hopes to continue the good work and success the tourist commission has seen under Marson’s tenure.

“I said to someone last week Janette left big shoes to fill as she has put us on the map,” Wilson said. “And this person told me something that I will never forget. ‘You have your own shoes, make your own path,’ and that gave me the confidence that although you can’t fill what someone else left behind, you can make it your own and it will be amazing!”

Wilson officially begins her new role on March 7.

Action Alternative” in which the Corps “repair/replace spillway ages as they fail within the constraints of normal operation and maintenance timing and budget,” and a much more involved “Proposed Action Alternative.”

The “Proposed Action Alternative” allows for replacement of all 10 spillway gates “at an anticipated rate of up to two gates per year,” the report said.

“It would be anticipated that up to three gates would be inoperable year-round with only one gate bay open at a time and only during the gate replacement window of June to November,” Carrington said.

The latter proposal would include replacement of “lifting machinery,” use of the adjacent Halcomb’s Landing parking lot for a “construction lay-down/staging area and use of (an) older launch ramp.” “The overflow lot and auxiliary launching ramp would be unavailable to the public Monday through Thursday from approximately January 2024 until the completion of the project,” the report said. “It would also be available to the public Friday through Sunday and for major summer holidays such as Independence Day, Memorial Day, Juneteeth, and Labor Day.”

The report said the contractor for the project “would not have access to the main paved lot, main entrance, or main launching ramp,” and the contractor “would not be able to use the water area closest to the launching ramp on weekends when the auxiliary launching ramp would be open to the public.”

“Temporary work platforms” would be installed on top of the dam, and traffic on U.S.

127 would be restricted to one lane “for the duration of construction” with “an occasional full closure for less than right hours, not on weekends.”
