

Local Resident Publishes Book

SPECIAL TO THE R-H

Thomas A. Akin recently published his new book, Money: A Primer for Life, on Amazon (amazon.com/author/moneyprimer). His book is organized into 12 chapters that contain relevant, practical information about money and life. The book is fashioned like a textbook in that it comes classroom-ready with quizzes, an answer key, a glossary of terms, a list of acronyms and initialisms, and an index. It's available in three formats: eBook, paperback, and hardcover.

According to Mr. Akin, the book was inspired by a conversation he had with his granddaughter about how things were going at school. She eagerly responded with details about her favorite classes and teachers. Then Mr. Akin asked his granddaughter if she was being taught how to handle money. That question produced an awkward silence as she contemplated a response. Well, it seems that although Mr. Akin's granddaughter was receiving an otherwise excellent public education, it became apparent that something was lacking. That missing element was training in financial literacy.

At this point, Mr. Akin realized that public education hadn't changed much with respect to money matters in the four decades since he attended high school. He wondered how this could be. At that moment, he was inspired to do something about it. Something for his grandchildren. Something for everyone. Mr. Akin reasoned that he had a lifetime of experience to offer in this regard. So, he resolved to write a book that addresses money in the context of modern living.

Mr. Akin graduated from Green County High School in 1978. Subsequently, he attended Western Kentucky University and graduated with a BS in Electrical Engineering Technology. While working as an engineering manager at Hughes Aircraft Company, he earned an MBA from the University of California. Mr. Akin retired from Raytheon as a Program Manager at age 55 and returned to KY with his wife, Georgia Dale Cook Akin (recently deceased). He currently resides in Columbia, KY, and maintains close ties to family and friends in Greensburg, KY.

Students K-12 invited to enter KET Young Writers Contest

Does your child have a story to tell?

Students in kindergarten through 12th grade are invited to submit stories, poems and illustrated tales for the 2022 KET Young Writers Contest. The contest, which runs Jan. 1 through April 15, encourages students to celebrate the power of crafting stories, poems and illustrations by submitting their own original work!

We've made two changes to this year's contest: First, we've added a new category: graphic novels. Second, we've opened the categories to students of all grade levels (and widened the age requirement for the illustrated stories category to include PreK children).

The categories are: Illustrated stories (Pre-K through 12th grade)

Short stories (Kindergarten through 12th grade)

Poetry (Kindergarten through 12th grade)

Graphic novels (Kindergarten through 12th grade)

Entries must be submitted or postmarked by April 15, 2022, to be eligible. Complete rules and contest entry forms are available at KET.org/writerscontest.

KET judges will select winners by May 30, 2022, and the top three entries in each category will be published online.

KET is Kentucky's largest classroom, where learning comes to life for more than one million people each week via television, online and mobile. Learn more about Kentucky's preeminent public media organization at KET.org/Education, on Twitter @EducationKET and on Facebook @EducationKET.

Green County honored during School Board Recognition Month

As Kentucky observes School Board Recognition Month in January, Green County is joining in the celebration.

Marshall Davis, Marcy Goff, Dan Hedgespeth, Clevis Jeffries, and Mike McCubbin are among the more than 850 school board members in the state's 171 local school districts being recognized this month for their service.

This is the perfect time to thank school board members for serving in a role that has become increasingly complex, said Davonna Page, president of the Kentucky School Boards Association and member of the Russellville Independent school board.

"Members of the Green County Board of Education are responsible for making decisions aimed at ensuring that every child in their district has a chance to be successful both in school and in life," Page said. "To do that, members oversee a multi-million dollar budget, keep up with changing education laws and policies, and spend hours on professional learning and state-mandated training."

"The voters in Green County have elected these local leaders, who work to give every child in every classroom access to high quality teaching and learning," said Superintendent William L. Hodges.

"At a time when state and federal funding continues to shrink, our school board members haven't flinched in the face of the challenges or shied away from their responsibilities," he said. "Our community can be very proud of this team of board members, and I'm proud to be their partner in striving for education excellence for our children."
