Transforming the Ordinary Into the Extraordinary

Sometimes, we travel through life so quickly that we don't notice how extraordinary the world really is. At 60 miles per hour, we certainly won't notice the roses, let alone smell them. Likewise in life, if we are hurrying from one frenetic task to another, we simply won't have the time or energy to appreciate the joys and wonders of life. We should slow down and savor our food. The next time we are having a conversation with someone, we should try to be fully present with them and then notice how much richer the experience can be. Instead of multitasking, we should be fully present and aware while doing only one thing at a time. Better to do one thing right than to botch two things simultaneously. Part of transforming the ordinary into the extraordinary is about slowing down, but it is equally important to see the world with new eyes. Our ordinary way of seeing can also be a way of not seeing. That is, perception allows certain things to enter our minds at the same time that it filters out others. What we notice is often determined by our current needs or by what we are doing at the time. For example, if we are hungry, we are more likely to see the restaurants as we drive down the road. To see the world with fresh eyes, we can start by slowing down and really noticing things. We should strive to regain the wonder of experiencing life like a child, as if for the first time, because in reality, each day, indeed each instant, is a new creation.

For with You is the fountain of life; In Your light we see light.
New K.J.V. Psalm 36:9
