Holocaust art exhibition in Champaign

"The Auschwitz Experience in the Art of Prisoners" will make its Champaign premiere April 27 at Illini Hillel's Cohen Center for Jewish Life on the University of Illinois campus, 503 E. John, Champaign.

Created by the Auschwitz-Birkenau State Museum in Poland, this exhibition features artwork by 12 survivors who documented their experiences in the Auschwitz Concentration Camp and present their fate as victims of the largest German concentration and extermination camp.

Visitors can view these profound pieces of art, which include 60 paintings and drawings, in docent-led small groups or independently.

According to the Auschwitz-Birkenau State Museum, "The artists who survived tried to convey on canvas or paper the magnitude of the tragedy and the horrifying reality of camp life. They produced works, and sometimes whole cycles, in which we can see the conditions under which the prisoners existed, standing at roll call, the appalling sanitation, the hunger, the punishments, the humiliation, and emotions like dread, despair, and helplessness."

A grand opening from 6-8:30 p.m. April 27 will feature music and a presentation by Holocaust experts, along with refreshments.

"By observing life in the Auschwitz Concentration Camp through the memory of its inmates, people will have the opportunity to increase knowledge and understanding of the Holocaust and learn about the daily struggle for survival by the camp's prisoners," said Robert Lehmann, co-chair of the CUJF's Holocaust Education Center and lead organizer of this exhibition

"The poignant beauty of much Holocaust art deepens yet also complicates the process of Holocaust memory. Even when this art forged in trauma makes viewers uncomfortable, it also teaches. The unwanted beauty found in these works insist that we continue to examine how the Shoah (the Holocaust) resides in our thoughts; because this art is beautiful, it entices our reflection, our attention, and our questioning," said Dr. Brett Ashley Kaplan, UI Professor of Comparative Literature and Jewish Studies and Director of the Initiative in Holocaust, Genocide, and Memory Studies.

Registration is required to attend the grand opening and may be done by visiting illini-hillel.org/artofprisoners. The public is invited to sign up for a personalized tour on the registration site.
