

SUMNER HILL HOSTS ALL-PRO DAD DINNER

The Clinton Courier

The All-Pro Dad Chapter of Sumner Hill Junior High School, the Clinton Public School District's ninth-grade school, recently held an All-Pro Dad Dinner, with food prepared by the Clinton High School Culinary Arts program, under the direction of Chef Katherine Bruce. The purpose of the dinner was to encourage healthy relationships and communication skills among boys and their dads or their adult male role models. During monthly gatherings, dads and students engage in meaningful conversations and activities centered around a character-based curriculum.

The guest speaker for the event was Coach Tony Dungy, co-founder of the All-Pro Dad Program and NFL sports announcer, who is also the first African American to win a Super Bowl and the author of several motivational books. Dungy joined the group remotely, but guests were able to take photos with a near-life-sized model of him at the event.
