Christine lived a quiet, love-driven life full of simple pleasures. She found joy in her morning coffee, her best furry friend Snuggles who she'll join in Heaven, laughter over meals at Red Lobster, and a bowl of popcorn alongside reruns of Cops. Most importantly, though, she loved nothing more than quality time with the people close to her heart. A staunch believer in the importance of hospitality, love, comfort, and humor, memories with Christine will bring smiles for decades to come.
