in Champaign and would rather stop there. We had people like you that would check to see if we had it or if we could get it for them.

<TF> This was the place to find it cheaper!

I know that health issues have kind of set you back, but at one time you had a pretty viable online presence, right?

<KF> I got Covid and it made it so that I couldn't use my phone.

Have you thought about getting someone to help you and just have an online presence?

<TF> No, we're going to have Bauer (Bauer Auction Service) come up and do a live auction.

Was selling things on EBAY ever an option?

<KF> We planned on running this ourselves, with some help. We had four people who volunteered to help, and then it got down to one, Shirley, and she ended up running it for us.

This turned out to be such a fabulous space.

I know. We're so proud of it. If you can't find what you need here for a birthday present, or for a piece of furniture. You're not looking hard enough, right?

Yep. Exactly.

What does the future hold?

<TF> We're just going to accept retirement and take it easy.

If someone needs something,

would you be willing to come up and meet them?

Oh yeah. I put a sign on the door that said, "If you need anything be sure and call me."

Would you like it if someone wanted to just "turnkey" purchase your business?

<TF> I'd give them the keys!

<laughs>

Is there anything else you'd like to add? Anyone you want to send a shout out to?

<KF> I would like to say thank you to Shirley Warnes. I'd also like to thank everyone who came in. There were people from here in town and from out of town who would bring us stuff and who would shop all the time.

the lot that sits between the public works building and his residence to the north. Mayor Eversole Gunter, along with Mixell, informed him that the lot was not for sale at this time because the city might have to make use of the space in the future, but that if the situation ever changed, he would be the first to be notified.
