

Sewing & Stacking Takes Dexterity, Strength

POTATO PUN

My friend had a terrible time working for a potato merchant. They gave him the sack.

At 10:00 a.m. on Saturday, two-person teams will be lined up on Front Street, just north of the Main Stage, to be timed on how fast they can sew and stack ten, 100-pound burlap bags of potatoes. Participants will have to do this the old-fashioned way - using a large needle and heavy string, then piling the bags crisscross on a wooden pallet.

A plaque will be awarded to first place teams in the different categories. The record time to beat for this event is two minutes and 55 seconds.

SPUD JOKE

I purchased a potato gun the other day.

Answer: Turns out it was a weapon of mashed destruction.
