Seniors name their favorite classes

We asked Carey's graduating seniors what their favorite subject was and why. The answers varied, but they were topped by English, math, history and agriculture. Here are the answers.

Kaylee Hall said she liked "English because I enjoyed writing, reading, and expressing my thoughts creatively" and agriculture "because it taught me responsibility, team work, and we got to do hands-on work in class."

"My favorite subject was English because I love to read and write in Mrs. Speers' class," said Christine Walton.

"Musical arts (choir and band) because I feel at home whenever I'm there and all the people in band consider each other family," said Vinny Nickerson.

"My favorite subject in high school was ag education because of the amount of hands-on stuff we got to do. I enjoy not having to sit in a desk every day and stare at a computer," Autumn Bouillon explained.

"Math," answered Adam Collet. "I just like numbers."

Madison Hall also said, "Math. It is my best subject."

"Statistics because it challenged me and taught me how to critically think," said Sophia Klein.

"My favorite subject was English," Ray Gerschutz said. "It allowed me to present my thoughts, opinions, and skills in a clear and educated way."

"My favorite subject would probably be math or history. Carey High School has never failed to have a teacher that made the subject fun and easy to understand," said Jazmin Zink.

Presley Hartley said, "I adore my DECA class because it helps prepare me for the future and I'm good at it."

"My favorite subject in high school was mentoring," Miley Bloom said. "Mentoring inspired me to teach early childhood. Mentoring has taught me that I love helping and teaching young kids."

"My favorite subject in high school was history," Audrey Simons said. "I loved learning about the history of how America came to be and all the hardships we as a country had to face. Hearing about the wars was always sad but overall the most interesting thing in school. Since eighth grade my favorite movie/musical was 'Hamilton,' written by Lin-Manuel Miranda. Not only were the songs catchy but also the life of the man who helped our financial system come to be the way it is now."

Abby Kurtz said, "My favorite subject is art because I love making things and channeling my creativity."

"My favorite subject in high school was history because I have always found it very interesting," Savannah Walton said.

"I liked math the most because once I understood something, it clicked and stayed in my mind. I also liked math because two of my math classes were taught by Ms. Martin," said Tylinn Stoll.

"My favorite subject was Guitar 1 and 2," Blake Hall said.

Brayton Myers said, "My favorite subject in high school was coding with Mr. Ruhe."

Jessica Chamberlain chose math because it is "easy" and "fun."
