

Give me three words

... to describe your high school years

We asked Mohawk's graduates what three words best described their high school years. Words like "fun," "exciting" and "fast" appeared the most often in their responses.

Kalyn England said, "Fun, short, memorable."

"Fun, exciting, ending," said Cole Leeth.

"Fast, fun, entertaining," Kaden Roush said.

Hezekiah Ramirez answered, "Fast, fun, entertaining."

David Hoffert said, "Fun, stressful, hard."

"Fun, friendship, fascination," said Brady Coffman.

Collin Eader described his experience as "fun, fast, alright."

"Exciting, laid back, easy," said John Stansbery.

Zoey Kessler said, "Exciting, eye-opening, unpredictable."

"Scary, exciting, scattered," Kristin Dyer said.

Aurora Harper's words were "exciting, confusing, changing."

Brendan Tackett said, "Memorable, fast, social."

"Excellence, versatility and dedication," Eli Chevalier said.

"Stressful, long, over," said Biz Klopp.

Elizabeth Rhoads said, "Eventful, unforgettable and timeless."

"Long, transformative, unpredictable," said Faith Zender.

"Focused determined, creative," Ana-Jean Dettelman answered.

"Nostalgic, growing, quick," Carter Perry said.

"Roller coaster, growth, chaotic," said Cameron Hufford.

Kasidi Reis-Kelly's words were "overwhelming, suffocating, adventurous, lessons learned."

"Challenging, roller coaster, shenanigans," said Liam Pursell.

"Growth, independence, boredom," Elise Meyer said.

"Developing, repetitive, tiring," Kennedy Bowlin said.

Landon Yeager is "glad it's over."

Braxton Frisch called his high school years "a great experience."
