Love in the little things

Dr. Angelia Bryant

Clinical Counselor

Valentine's Day arrives each year wrapped in red ribbons, heart-shaped boxes, and expectations of grand gestures. Store shelves overflow with roses, chocolates, and cards promising "forever." And while those expressions are beautiful, I've learned that real love is often found in quieter, simpler moments.

Love lives in early morning talks. Love shows up in a text message that says, "I'm thinking of you." It's in the gentle question, "Did you get home safely?" and the steady presence of someone who stays when life gets complicated.

Valentine's Day reminds us to pause and appreciate the people who love us and those we love in return. That maybe a spouse, a child, a grandchild, a dear friend, a neighbor, or even someone who has quietly supported you through a hard season. Love takes many forms, and each one is sacred.

Sometimes we focus so much on romantic love that we forget about the deeper call—to love generously, compassionately, and faithfully. In my work as a counselor and in my life as a wife, mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother, I've seen how powerful simple love can be. A listening ear. A handwritten note. A warm hug. A sincere prayer. These small acts often carry the greatest meaning.

This Valentine's Day, I encourage you to look beyond the candy and cards. Take time to say "thank you" to those who stand beside you. Speak words of kindness. Offer grace. Extend forgiveness. And most of all, love with your whole heart.

And if you find yourself feeling lonely or overlooked this season, remember—you are deeply loved by God, beyond measure, beyond circumstance, beyond comparison. His love is constant, unchanging, and everlasting.

Let this be a day not just of celebration, but of reflection. A day to commit ourselves to loving well - in our homes, our communities, and our hearts. Because in the end, love is not about perfection. It's about presence. It's about choosing kindness. It's about walking together—hand in hand—through every season. Happy Valentine's Day.

Remember, "Above all, love each other deeply, because love covers over a multitude of sins."

— 1 Peter 4:8 And above all, Love God and All People.

Love God and All People. Amen.

Green County Blessing Bags

In the United States, nearly 17 million children under 18 live in households where they are unable to consistently access enough nutritious food necessary for a healthy life. Green County Blessing Bags is a program to help ensure children have the resources to give them nutritious food when not in school.

Yes, I want to show support for the Backpack program. I know that every $150 gift feeds a child on the program for an entire year.
