

Givens' Legislative Update

Week 12 of the '26 Regular Session: The Final Stretch

Senate report
State Sen. David Givens

We're starting to see the final stretch of the 2026 Regular Session take shape in Frankfort.

With only a handful of legislative days left on the calendar, much of the work lawmakers have been focused on for the past several months is now moving through the final stages of the process. Bills are making their way between the House and Senate as both chambers work to finish action before the session comes to a close.

In even-numbered years, the General Assembly meets for 60 legislative days. As we approach the end of that schedule, legislation that clears both chambers will soon begin heading to the governor's desk, where bills may be signed into law, vetoed, or allowed to become law without a signature. Lawmakers will then return to Frankfort for the final days of the session to consider any vetoes and complete the remaining work before the legislature adjourns sine die on April 15.

One major item still under discussion is the state budget, which outlines Kentucky's spending priorities for the next two fiscal years. Members of both chambers are continuing to work through that process as negotiations move forward and lawmakers work toward a final agreement.

The closing days of a session are always busy, but they are also when much of the work that has taken place over the past few months begins to come together.

This week the House passed Senate Bill (SB) 173, legislation I sponsored to strengthen legislative oversight of Kentucky's state health plan. The bill establishes a formal process for lawmakers to review amendments to the plan, recognizing that health policy decisions — particularly those affecting Medicaid — carry significant long-term implications for the commonwealth. SB 173 is now with the governor for final consideration.

Below are several other measures that advanced through the legislative process this week.

HB 4 creates a new criminal offense for grooming minors, targeting conduct intended to prepare a child for future sexual abuse while protecting appropriate interactions such as parenting, teaching, or coaching.

HB 7 allows school buses to use cameras to identify drivers who illegally pass while students are loading or unloading, establishing a process for issuing fines while protecting privacy and preventing points from being added to a driver's record.

HB 10 increases oversight of executive branch actions during the transition between governors by placing limits on certain contracts and personnel changes, requiring review of major legal settlements, and expanding transparency requirements.

HB 58 establishes statewide standards for the use of automated license plate reader technology, limiting how data can be collected, shared, and stored while allowing its use for law enforcement, tolling, and recovering stolen vehicles.

HB 78 provides liability protections for firearm manufacturers and sellers from certain lawsuits related to the criminal misuse of firearms or ammunition, with enforcement authority granted to the Attorney General.

HB 139 updates Kentucky's election laws by raising campaign contribution limits, strengthening voter identification rules, improving election administration, and allowing verification of voter eligibility through federal data sharing.

SB 185 creates a long-term recovery and improvement plan for Kentucky State University, increasing oversight and transparency while focusing on financial stability, workforce-aligned programs, and student success.

HB 189 establishes safety standards for where pedestrians may be along state roadways, while allowing exceptions for emergencies, first responders, utility crews, and designated pedestrian areas.

HB 253 strengthens reading instruction by requiring research-based methods aligned with the science of reading and adds new student safety protections by prohibiting nondisclosure agreements related to abuse.

HB 398 clarifies that the Public Service Commission may approve how utilities recover certain costs associated with retiring power plants.

HB 657 requires background checks for new, reinstated, or out-of-state professional license applicants while protecting privacy and limiting fees, but does not require checks for routine renewals.

HB 781 directs the cabinet to develop a SNAP education and training plan that helps participants build job skills, connect with employers, and move toward long-term employment.

It is an honor to represent our community in Frankfort, and I appreciate the many conversations I've had with constituents throughout this session. Your perspectives help shape the work we do here, and I anticipate continuing that work on your behalf.

Easter: Salvation, hope, and joy found in Jesus Christ

State Representative
Ryan Bivens

...Morning by morning new mercies I see. All I have needed thy hand hast provided; Great is thy faithfulness, Lord unto me. — Thomas Chisholm (1923)

In 1923, Thomas Chisholm, a writer from Franklin, Kentucky, wrote "Great is Thy Faithfulness," a hymn that has stood the test of time. The hymn describes God's faithfulness in both providing for our needs and consistency of His character. Easter is a time to remember God's ultimate faithfulness through providing Jesus as our Savior. This week, I would like to take a break from the legislative updates to reflect on the significance of Easter.

Over 2,000 years ago, God sent His Son, Jesus Christ, to earth to die for the sins of the world and resurrect three days later. The miracle of Jesus' resurrection is why we still celebrate Easter today. Easter also serves as a reminder that we all need forgiveness and salvation from our sin. The punishment for all the sins of the world was taken on by Jesus on the cross. Therefore, anyone who accepts this truth of Jesus Christ as the Son of God and our Lord and Savior will be saved from the eternal punishment of sin. It is through His resurrection that we can have eternal life. The Bible teaches us that all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, but because of God's great love for us, He sent His Son as our Redeemer. This free gift of salvation and eternal life is still available for all people.

My faith in God guides me, strengthens me, and gives me peace and hope in a broken world. Because of Jesus' sacrifice on the cross, I can have a personal relationship with God. I can have peace knowing He loves me, He is in control, and is faithful always. This truth has been transformative for my own life, and it can be for you too. No matter your circumstances, God loves you and desires a relationship with you.

Perhaps you have never attended Sunday services, and, if so, I encourage you to find a church to attend this Easter. Go and learn about Jesus' life, death, and resurrection, and the hope you can have through Him. For those who already have a relationship with Jesus, invite someone to church and pray that many more would come to know Him this Easter. In uncertain times like these, we all need hope. Through Jesus, not only can we have hope, but also love, peace, joy, and the promise of life everlasting.

The joy of Jesus' resurrection and defeat of death has not waned since that first Easter. I pray that all would come to know and experience the joy of Jesus in their own lives.

Garcia selected as 2026-27 Spirit Master at WKU

Thirty-two Western Kentucky University students, including one local student, have been selected as Spirit Masters for the 2026-27 year.

Spirit Masters, known as the official student ambassadors of WKU, serve to preserve traditions, strive for excellence and make the spirit of WKU contagious. They do this through service to the university.

According to the organization's mission, Spirit Masters work with each other and WKU officials to extend the spirit of WKU to others so they, too, can understand how "The Spirit Makes the Master." Spirit Masters were first presented to the University in the spring of 1981. Fourteen WKU students have been newly selected as Spirit Masters for 2026-27, including Alexa Garcia, a junior from Greensburg majoring in Spanish with a concentration in Professional Legal Studies.

For more information about WKU Spirit Masters, visit <https://www.wku.edu/spirit-masters/> or email spirit-masters@wku.edu.
