

“Living Wax Museum” of famous Mississippians held at Eastside Elementary

Photos by Tammie Stephens

The Clinton Courier

Actors, artists, athletes, chefs, entrepreneurs, musicians, pilots, scientists, writers and more made up famous Mississippians who showed up for the recent Living Wax Museum at Eastside Elementary School. Fourth-grade ACCENT students each portrayed a famous Mississippian. After conducting research, writing and then memorizing a speech, creating a display board, and using Canva to create a video presentation, students were ready to open their exhibits.

Upon entry to the Living Wax Museum, guests were instructed to push the button near the exhibit to hear the presentation. Once the presentation was over, students returned to a frozen position and waited till their button was pushed again. Guests said they enjoyed the museum and even saw some exhibits of famous Mississippians who hailed from Clinton.

