

Bobby Jones Links to manage Live Oaks Golf Club

Special to The Clinton Courier

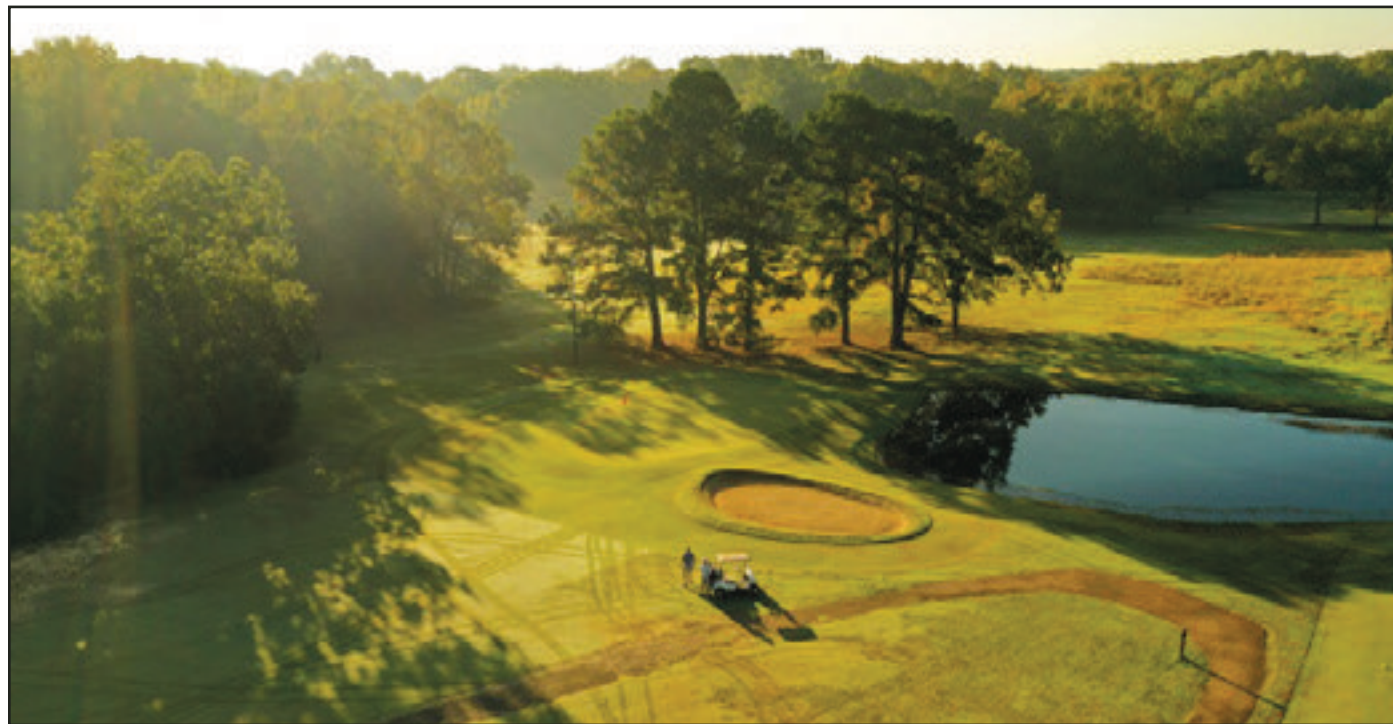

Bobby Jones Links (BJL), one of the fastest-growing club management and development companies in the industry, recently announced that it has been chosen to manage the semi-private Live Oaks Golf Club just outside of Clinton.

Just northwest of Jackson, where the city's edges dissolve into a quieter, more pastoral swath of Mississippi heartland, Live Oaks unfolds across 130 scenic acres. Opened in 1969 and designed by John F. Stahl, the club is home to an 18-hole, par-72 routing stretching just under 6,600 yards. Its fairways roll gently through a parkland setting that reveals subtleties like uneven lies, shifting angles beneath the oak canopy, and testy, undulating Bermuda greens.

From Roosevelt's restaurant and bar to the timeless Reed House event venue and brand-new Bunk House sleeping up to sixty, Live Oaks has grown into a true destination, where guests can play, dine, celebrate and stay without ever leaving the grounds.

From overseeing a new irrigation system and sharper agronomy standards to elevated service training, an upgraded dining experience at Roosevelt's, and the addition of group accommodations, every improvement reflects BJL's expertise and points towards an exciting next chapter for Live Oaks.

"Longtime owner Kyle Morris, who passed away last year after a long health battle, always had a vision to make the golf club a really special place in the Jackson community," said Amy Buchanan, BJL's Vice President of Revenue Management. "That vision carries on with his wife, Kathryn Merrell, and his two sons, who are overseeing a strategic investment to make this place better than it's ever been."

"With the upgrades to the golf course, turning Roosevelt's into a more upscale, versatile dining attraction for the surrounding community, and adding new group lodging to complement the world-class wedding venue, Live Oaks is well on its way to fulfilling Kyle's vision."

Through the years, Live Oaks has evolved into a gathering place, anchored by amenities like the clubhouse, home to Roosevelt's adjoining bar and lounge. A pool and family-friendly spaces add to the club's distinctly communal character. The Reed House, a wedding and event venue built beneath cathedral-like oaks, is a renowned 10,000-square-foot hall with an open-air pavilion and ceremony spaces woven into the landscape,
