

The Glory Of The Ultimate Mullet

Some hairstyles fade away quietly. The mullet was never one of them.

Known best by its famous description, “business in the front and party in the back,” the mullet has found its way back into the spotlight, and this summer, it will have its own moment at the Clay County Fair.

Following the Talent Contest, the spotlight will shift from performers to hairstyles as the Clay County Fair Mullet Pageant takes the stage at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, July 9, at the band shelter. Registration will begin immediately after the Talent Contest, and there is no entry fee to participate.

Whether it is classic, curly, flowing, freshly trimmed or proudly over the top, fairgoers are invited to bring their best mullet energy to the stage. Participants are also encouraged to dress the part, with outfits that complement their hairstyle and help show off their personality.

The event is a chance for friends, family and fairgoers to cheer on one of the most recognizable hairstyles around.

After all, at the Mullet Pageant, the hair is only part of the show.
