

Sunday Entertainer Is Rachael Ianiro

Rachael Ianiro, a country and classic rock singer-songwriter from Detroit Lakes, will bring her soulful vocals and original music to the Clay County Fair this summer.

Ianiro will perform Sunday, July 12, at 12:30 p.m. at the Band Shelter.

A Nashville recording artist, Ianiro is known throughout the Midwest for energetic live performances that blend country, classic rock, pop covers and acoustic folk influences. Her music is rooted in storytelling, with songs inspired by daily encounters, family and personal experience.

Ianiro began writing songs at age 7 and later taught herself to play guitar at age 16. Since then, she has built a busy performance schedule across the region, appearing at bars, resorts, festivals and wineries throughout Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Her original music includes releases such as “Because My Daddy Does,” “Gettin’ By” and “Move,” a fan-requested favorite during live shows.

Off stage, Ianiro is just as memorable. She fishes for walleye, hunts deer and rides a Harley, bringing a spirited Minnesota personality to match her music.

Fairgoers are invited to stop by the Band Shelter Sunday afternoon and enjoy the sound of this Minnesota performer.
