

Magic Returns To 2026 Clay County Fair

Prepare to be amazed when award-winning master illusionist and comedy magician Tom Anderson returns to the Clay County Fair on Friday, July 10.

Anderson will perform three free shows at the Band Shelter throughout the day, giving fairgoers multiple opportunities to experience his unique blend of magic, comedy and audience participation. Show times are scheduled for 10 a.m., noon and 3 p.m.

Known for his family-friendly performances, Anderson's shows feature classic illusions, plenty of laughs and live animals, including doves and rabbits. Audience members never know what might happen next, and some may even find themselves becoming part of the act.

While Anderson performs across the region, the Clay County Fair holds special significance for him. His mother, Josephine Kava, was a graduate of Barnesville High School, giving the magician family ties to the local area. Anderson often enjoys involving relatives and familiar faces from the crowd during his performances, adding a personal touch to each show.

Whether you're a lifelong fan of magic or simply curious to see how the tricks are done, Anderson's performances offer entertainment for all ages. From classic illusions inspired by the great magicians of the past to modern comedy magic, his shows continue to captivate audiences year after year.

Admission is free, making it a perfect stop for families looking to add a little wonder to their day at the fair.
