

Above norm temps and near normal precip for June

It is hard to imagine, but the Memorial Day weekend is just around the corner. May 25 is the earliest that Memorial Day can fall on here in the U.S., while the latest it can be is May 31. This year it just happens to fall on the earliest date possible.

It looks to be a pretty decent Memorial Day Weekend. Highs over the weekend appear to be in the 70s and 80s, and rain chances look to be fairly small. We could see some scattered rain showers late Sunday night, but then we should clear out just in time for Memorial Day itself. I know there are some observances around the area this coming weekend.

As we head towards the month of June, the eight to 14 Day Outlook shows that we should have above normal temps and near normal precipitation during the period.

State parks, recreation areas and trails offer abundance of recreational opportunities over Memorial Day weekend

In preparation for the upcoming Memorial Day weekend, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is highlighting recreation opportunities across the state parks and trails system as well as tips on how to safely plan your trips.

"Memorial Day weekend is a meaningful time for people to spend time together outdoors, reflect and recharge," said Ann Pierce, director of the DNR's Parks and Trails Division. "Minnesota's state parks, recreation areas and trails offer places for people of all ages to experience nature, share outdoor traditions with family and friends, and make lasting memories. We invite everyone to get outside and enjoy the restorative benefits of time in nature."

The DNR's summer activities guide (mndnr.gov/summerguide) is a great place to start planning a Memorial Day weekend outing to a state park, recreation area or trail. The guide lists activities for people of all ages and interests.

Take a tour
Visitors can visit a cave,

a bison range or an underground mine on state park tours. Memorial Day weekend is the opening of the summer tour season. Visitors can make tour reservations in advance, and all tours have an accessible option for visitors with mobility disabilities. Learn more or reserve a spot at mndnr.gov/tours.

Know before you go
Planning ahead is key to a fun, safe and memorable trip to a state park, recreation area or trail.
