

Breakfast on the Farm is the Rooster's Crow to Rodeo Fest

By JEN MILLER
Staff Writer

Farmers rise before the sun, some even before the rooster crows, to tackle their morning chores. While the sun takes its sweet ole time stretching across the rolling fields throughout Clay County, farmers are already tending to their animals. The sound of chickens clucking, cows mooing, and pigs oinking greets them as they feed and water the livestock. Once the animals are cared for, it's on to the fields to plant barley, potatoes, and wheat.

While this is just a small glimpse of farm life, the 25th Annual Breakfast on the Farm (BOF) will serve up to 3,000+ guests a taste of farm life. Not only will guests
